RESPONSE TO LINE 610 – ABILITY TO FUNCTION IN EMERGENCY SITUATIONS

(Voice and Broadband)

Elsie Communications, Inc. (“The Company”) hereby certifies that it is able to function in emergency situations as set forth in §54.201(a)(2).¹ The Company’s voice and broadband network is designed to remain functional in emergency situations without an external power source, is able to reroute traffic around damaged facilities, and is capable of managing traffic spikes resulting from emergency situations as required by Section 54.202(a)(2). The Company can change call routing translations as needed to reroute traffic around damaged facilities. Changing call routing translations will also allow the Company to manage traffic spikes throughout its network, as emergency situations require.

Specifically, each central office building is supplied with standby generators and battery back-up that enable the central office to keep running until power is restored so long as fuel is available, or until system changes are made to reroute traffic. The Company has battery back-up at all office locations and in its electronic equipment sites. The Company’s standby generators and battery back-up equipment support both voice and broadband network equipment in the event of an emergency situation. The length of run time is determined by the equipment serving the area and the number of customers supported by the equipment.

¹ Section 54.201(a)(2) requires ETCs that are designated by the Commission to “demonstrate its ability to remain functional in emergency situations, including a demonstration that it has a reasonable amount of back-up power to ensure functionality without an external power source, is able to reroute traffic around damaged facilities, and is capable of managing traffic spikes resulting from emergency situations.”

Response to Line 1030 – Broadband Rate Comparability

Elsie Communications, Inc. provides broadband service at speeds up to 10 Mbps down and 2 Mbps up, which exceed the FCC's minimum broadband speeds. However, the Company is located in a very rural part of Nebraska and the cost to deploy broadband services is much higher than in more populated areas. The Company's customer density is low, which makes it difficult for the Company to recover costs of deploying broadband networks. Additionally, due to the distance between the Company's facilities and the Internet Point of Presence (POP), the Company's middle-mile transport costs greatly exceed those of urban Internet providers, further hindering the Company's ability to offer broadband service at or below the urban benchmark rates.

As an example, the Company's FCC-approved tariff for 10/1 data-only DSL service in October, 2016, was $363.41 per month. However, the FCC's current broadband benchmark rate for 10/1 broadband is set at $77.98. The FCC's broadband benchmark rates are based on average rates in urban areas and do not take into account, and in fact reflect a disconnect from, the cost of deploying broadband in rural areas.

As such, the Company's rates are both reasonable for its customers and provide some ability for the Company to recover its investment.
